Attending any such pre-proposal conference is optional and is at the Consultants’ expense.

2.4 The Client will timely provide, at no cost to the Consultants, the inputs, relevant project data, and reports required for the preparation of the Consultant’s Proposal as specified in the Data Sheet.

3. Conflict of Interest

3.1 The Consultants are required to provide professional, objective, and impartial advice, at all times holding the Client’s interests paramount, strictly avoiding conflicts with other assignments or its own corporate interests, and acting without any consideration for future work.

Advantage

The Consultant's attendance at the opening of the Financial Proposals (online, or in person, if such option is indicated in the Data Sheet) is optional and is at the Consultant's choice. If the Data Sheet provides an option of attending in person, the opening date should allow the Consultants sufficient time to make arrangements for attending the opening.

23.2 The Financial Proposals shall be opened online by the Client's evaluation committee as described in the Data Sheet. At the opening, the names of the Consultants, and the overall technical scores, including the break-down by criterion, shall be read aloud first and recorded online simultaneously. The Financial Proposals shall be then opened, the total prices read aloud and recorded online simultaneously. The records of the opening shall remain on the portal for the information of the Consultants who submitted Proposals and the Bank, unless the Data Sheet provides for other means of sending notifications and the results of the financial opening.

24. Correction of Errors

24.1 Activities and items described in the Technical Proposal but not priced in the Financial Proposal, shall be assumed to be included in the prices of other activities or items, and no corrections are made to the Financial Proposal.

a. Time-Based Contracts

24.1.1 If a Time-Based contract form is included in the e-RFP, the e-procurement system automatically calculates the amount in words from the amount in figures and automatically calculates the total amount. In case of discrepancy between (i) a partial amount (sub-total) and the total amount, or (ii) between the amount derived by multiplication of unit price with quantity and the total price, or (iii) between words and figures, the former will prevail. In case of discrepancy between the Technical and Financial Proposals in indicating quantities of input, the Technical Proposal prevails and the Client's evaluation committee shall correct the quantification indicated in the Financial Proposal so as to make it consistent with that indicated in the Technical Proposal, apply the relevant unit price included in the Financial Proposal to the corrected quantity, and correct the total Proposal cost. The evaluation committee will also adjust the prices if they fail to reflect all inputs included for the respective activities or items in the Technical Proposal.

b. Lump-Sum Contracts 24.2 If a Lump-Sum contract form is included in the RFP, the Consultant is deemed to have included all prices in the Financial Proposal, so neither arithmetical corrections nor price adjustments shall be made. The total price, net of taxes understood as per Clause ITC25 below, specified in the Financial Proposal (Form FIN-1) shall be considered as the offered price.

25. Taxes 25.1 The Client's evaluation of the Consultant's Financial Proposal shall exclude taxes and duties in the Client's country in accordance with the instructions in the Data Sheet.

26. Conversion to Single Currency 26.1 For the evaluation purposes, prices shall be converted to a single currency using the selling rates of exchange, source and date indicated in the Data Sheet.

27. Combined Quality and Cost Evaluation
a. Quality- and Cost-Based Selection (QCBS) 27.1 In the case of QCBS, the total score is calculated by weighting the technical and financial scores and adding them as per the formula and instructions in the Data Sheet. The Consultant achieving the highest combined technical and financial score will be invited for negotiations.

b. Fixed-Budget Selection(FBS) 27.2 In the case of FBS, those Proposals that exceed the budget indicated in Clause 14.1.4 of the Data Sheet shall be rejected.

27.3 The Client will select the Consultant that submitted the highest-ranked Technical Proposal that does not exceed the budget indicated in the RFP, and invite such Consultant to negotiate the Contract.

c. Least-Cost Selection

27.4 In the case of Least-Cost Selection (LCS), the Client will select the Consultant with the lowest evaluated total price among those consultants that achieved the minimum technical score, and invite such Consultant to negotiate the Contract.

D. Negotiations and Award

28. Negotiations

28.1 The negotiations will be held at the date and address indicated in the Data Sheet with the Consultant's representative(s) who must have written power of attorney to negotiate and sign a Contract on behalf of the Consultant.

28.2 The Client shall prepare minutes of negotiations that are signed by the Client and the Consultant's authorized representative.

a. Availability of Key Experts

28.3 The invited Consultant shall confirm the availability of all Key Experts included in the Proposals a pre-requisite to the negotiations, or, if applicable, a replacement in accordance with Clause 12 of the ITC. Failure to confirm the Key Experts' availability may result in the rejection of the Consultant's Proposal and the Client proceeding to negotiate the Contract with the next-ranked Consultant.

28.4 Notwithstanding the above, the substitution of Key Experts at the negotiations may be considered if due solely to circumstances outside the reasonable control of and not foreseeable by the Consultant, including but not limited to death or medical incapacity. In such case, the Consultant shall offer a substitute Key Expert within the period of time specified in the letter of invitation to negotiate the Contract, who shall have equivalent or better qualifications and experience than the original candidate.

b. Technical negotiations

28.5 The negotiations include discussions of the Terms of Reference (TORs), the proposed methodology, the Client's inputs, the special conditions of the Contract, and finalizing the "Description of Services" part of the Contract. These discussions shall not substantially alter the original scope of services under the TOR or the terms of the contract, lest the quality of the final product, its price, or the relevance of the initial evaluation be affected.

c. Financial negotiations

28.6 The negotiations include the clarification of the Consultant's tax liability in the Client's country and how it should be reflected in the Contract.

28.7 If the selection method included cost as a factor in the evaluation, the total price stated in the Financial Proposal for a Lump-Sum contract shall not be negotiated.

28.8 In the case of a Time-Based contract, unit rates negotiations shall not take place, except when the offered Key Experts and Non-Key Experts' remuneration rates are much higher than the typically charged rates by consultants in similar contracts. In such case, the Client may ask for clarifications and, if the fees are very high, ask to change the rates after consultation with the Bank.

The format for (i) providing information on remuneration rates in the case of Quality Based Selection; and (ii) clarifying remuneration rates' structure under Clause 28.8 above, is provided in Appendix A to the Financial Form FIN-3: Financial Negotiations – Breakdown of Remuneration Rates.

29. Conclusion of Negotiations

29.1 The negotiations are concluded with a review of the finalized draft Contract, which then shall be initialled by the Client and the Consultant's authorized representative.

29.2 If the negotiations fail, the Client shall inform the Consultant in writing of all pending issues and disagreements and provide a final opportunity to the Consultant to respond. If disagreement persists, the Client shall terminate the negotiations informing the Consultant of the reasons for doing so. After having obtained the Bank's no objection, the Client will invite the next-ranked Consultant to negotiate a Contract. Once the Client commences negotiations with the next-ranked Consultant, the Client shall not reopen the earlier negotiations.

30. Award of Contract

30.1 After completing the negotiations the Client shall obtain the Bank's no objection to the negotiated draft Contract, if applicable; sign the Contract; promptly notify the other Consultants and publish the awards per the instructions in the Data Sheet.

30.2 The Consultant is expected to commence the assignment on the date and at the location specified in the Data Sheet.

Appendix A. Financial Negotiations - Breakdown of Remuneration Rates

1. Review of Remuneration Rates

- 1.1. The remuneration rates are made up of salary or a base fee, social costs, overheads, profit, and any premium or allowance that may be paid for assignments away from headquarters or a home office. An attached Sample Form can be used to provide a breakdown of rates.
- 1.2. If the RFP requests submission of a technical proposal only, the Sample Form is used by the selected Consultant to prepare for the negotiations of the Contract. If the RFP requests submission of the financial proposal, the Sample Form shall be completed and attached to the Financial Form-3. Agreed (at the negotiations) breakdown sheets shall form part of the negotiated Contract and included in its Appendix D or C.
- 1.3. At the negotiations the firm shall be prepared to disclose its audited financial statements for the last three years, to substantiate its rates, and accept that its proposed rates and other financial matters are subject to scrutiny. The Client is charged with the custody of government funds and is expected to exercise prudence in the expenditure of these funds.
- 1.4. Rate details are discussed below:
 - (i) Salary is the gross regular cash salary or fee paid to the individual in the firm's home office. It shall not contain any premium for work away from headquarters or bonus (except where these are included by law or government regulations).
 - (ii) Bonuses are normally paid out of profits. To avoid double counting, any bonuses shall not normally be included in the "Salary" and should be shown separately. Where the Consultant's accounting system is such that the percentages of social costs and overheads are based on total revenue, including bonuses, those percentages shall be adjusted downward accordingly. Where national policy requires that 13 months' pay be given for 12 months' work, the profit element need not be adjusted downward. Any discussions on bonuses shall be supported by audited documentation, which shall be treated as confidential.
 - (iii) Social Charges are the costs of non-monetary benefits and may include, inter alia, social security (including pension, medical, and life insurance costs) and the cost of a paid sick and/or annual leave. In this regard, a paid leave during public holidays or an annual leave taken during an assignment if no Expert's replacement has been provided is not considered social charges.
 - (iv) Cost of Leave. The principles of calculating the cost of total days leave per annum as a percentage of basic salary is normally calculated as follows:

$$\text{Leave cost as percentage of salary} = \frac{\text{total days leave} \times 100}{[365 - w - \text{ph} - v - s]}$$

Where w = weekends, ph = public holidays, v = vacation, and s = sick leave.

Please note that leave can be considered as a social cost only if the Client is not charged for the leave taken.

- (v) Overheads are the Consultant's business costs that are not directly related to the execution of the assignment and shall not be reimbursed as separate items under the Contract. Typical items are home office costs (non-billable time, time of senior Consultant's staff monitoring the project, rent of headquarters' office, support staff, research, staff training, marketing, etc.), the cost of Consultant's personnel not currently employed on revenue-earning projects, taxes on business activities, and business promotion costs. During negotiations, audited financial statements, certified as correct by an independent auditor and supporting the last three years' overheads, shall be available for discussion, together with detailed lists of items making up the overheads and the percentage by which each relates to basic salary. The Client does not accept an add-on margin for social charges, overhead expenses, etc. for Experts who are not permanent employees of the Consultant. In such case, the Consultant shall be entitled only to administrative costs and a fee on the monthly payments charged for sub-contracted Experts.
- (vi) Profit is normally based on the sum of the Salary, Social costs, and Overheads. If any bonuses paid on a regular basis are listed, a corresponding reduction shall be made in the profit amount. Profit shall not be allowed on travel or any other reimbursable expenses.
- (vii) Away from Home Office Allowance or Premium or Subsistence Allowances. Some Consultants pay allowances to Experts working away from headquarters or outside of the home office. Such allowances are calculated as a percentage of salary (or a fee) and shall not draw overheads or profit. Sometimes, by law, such allowances may draw social costs. In this case, the amount of this social cost shall still be shown under social costs, with the net allowance shown separately.

UNDP standard rates for the particular country may be used as reference to determine subsistence allowances.

WATER AVAILABILITY STUDY IN THE DISTRICTS OF PURULIA, BANKURA & JHARGRAM IN WEST BENGAL UNDER NATIONAL HYDROLOGY PROJECT

A. Introduction

“Water is life” is a common expression which we use almost as a cliché. However, the phrase is probably one of the most powerfully true messages the whole creation bears witness to. The earth is two-thirds water, and the human body is 70% water, it goes without saying that no life can be sustained without water. From an early age we have been taught the water cycle and how it sustains life, but we still continue to take it for granted. We pollute water basins, rivers, and even the atmosphere that provides us with this precious commodity.

Human civilization depends heavily upon the water. Although more than 70% of the Earth’s surface is covered with water, we can only use merely 1% of the total water. Almost 97% of the total water is saline by nature and rest of the 3% remains as fresh water. Most of the fresh water is stored as ice in glaciers and polar sheets. Almost 30% of total fresh water is stored in aquifers as ground water and less than 1% is available at lakes and rivers. There is a tremendous pressure on fresh water resources all over the world, especially in the developing countries. In India, demand for water is growing at an alarming rate. Ground water level is declining due to excessive ground water extraction. The exploitation of ground water has taken place at a speed, which does not allow the water table to recover its losses. Recharge process is inadequate in comparison of the rate of extraction. Because of this, shallow aquifers are drying up and drought-like situation is happening over large parts of the country during pre-monsoon season.

Water availability study is of utmost importance for the optimum utilization and conservation of this precious resource. Water availability is the quantity of water that can be used for human needs without significantly harming the ecosystem or other users.

The broad factors upon which the water availability depends are –

- Climate
- Geology
- Pollution
- Over-abstraction
- Limited infrastructure for storage
- Poverty

B. Background

River Kangsabati

The Kangsabati River (also known as the Kasai and Cossye in the British period) rises from JaborPahar near Jhalda in the Chota Nagpur plateau in Purulia District, West Bengal, and passes through the districts of Purulia, Bankura and PaschimMedinipur in West Bengal before debouching into the Bay of Bengal. After the confluence of two smaller river streams namely Saharjhor and Girgiri, the river takes the name of Kangshabati near Tigravillage of C. D. Block Jhalda II in district Purulia. It is joined by Bhairab-banki. The total length of the river is about 465 kilometres.

At Keshpur the river splits into two distributaries. The northern branch flows through the Daspur area as Palarpai to join the River Rupnarayan. The other branch flows in a south-easterly direction and joins the River Kaliaghai to be called as the River Haldi, which flows into the Bay of Bengal at Haldia. Purulia, Mukutmanipur, Raipur, Binpur, Midnapore, and Kharagpur are the names of a few important towns on or near the banks of this river.

River Subarnarekha

The Subarnarekha River rises at Village Nagri, near Ranchi, Jharkhand and flows through the states of Jharkhand, West Bengal and Odisha. With a total basin size of more than nineteen thousand square kilometres, the Subarnarekha Basin is ranked as the smallest river basin amongst the fourteen major river basins of India.

After leaving Jharkhand, it flows about 83 kilometres through Paschim Medinipur district in West Bengal, and thereafter about 79 kilometres through the Balasore district of Odisha, before debouching into the Bay of Bengal near Talsari. The total length of the river is about 474 kilometres. The prominent tributaries of the Subarnarekha are the Rivers Kharkai, Roro, Kanchi, HarmuNadi, Damra, Karru, Chinguru, Karakari, Gurma, Garra, Singaduba, Kodia, Dulunga and Khaijori. Jamshedpur, Chaibasa, Ranchi, Bhadrak, Chandil, Ghatshila and Gopiballavpur are the names of a few important towns on or near the banks of this river.

River Damodar

The Damodar River rises in the Palamau hills of Chota Nagpur Plateau in District Palamau, Jharkhand and flows across the states of Jharkhand and West Bengal. It has a number of tributaries like Barakar (the principal tributary), Konar, Bokaro, Haharo, Jamunia, Ghari, Guaia, Khadia and Bhera. The river has a total length of about 541 kilometres.

It flows in a south-easterly direction and enters the deltaic plains below Raniganj. Near Burdwan, the river abruptly changes its course to southerly direction and then bifurcates into two channels viz. the Damodar channel (also known as Amta channel) and the Mundeshwari channel. The main Amta-Damodar channel joins the Hooghly River at Falta, about 48 kilometers below Kolkata and debouches into the Bay of Bengal. The Mundeshwari channel joins the River Rupnarayan near Dhanyakheri, which itself is a tributary to the River Hooghly. The total catchment area is more than twenty-two thousand square kilometers. Bokaro, Asansol, Raniganj, Durgapur, Bardhaman are the names of a few important towns on or near the banks of this river.

The Districts

Geologically the districts Purulia (6,259 square kilometers), Bankura (6,882 square kilometers) and Jhargram (3,038 square kilometres) are a part of the peninsular shield. Diverse groups of rocks from various geological ages are found in these districts. Hence, porosity and permeability are very low in this hard rocky terrain. Impervious crystalline rocks are the main hindrance to the development of proper aquifer system. Ground water occurs in shallow fractures and weathered mantles and remains in unconfined or semi confined condition. However, it is also found in deep fractures of hard crystalline rocks. These districts are considered as the backward districts of West Bengal in terms of economy and human development. The districts are suffering from acute water shortages for a long time and water scarcity is a major issue for the limited socio-economic development of these districts. They are very drought prone especially Purulia- receives scanty rainfall that is unable to resuscitate water bodies. Almost all water sources dry up and cracks appear in the fields. While tankers supply drinking water to the urban areas, rural areas face an acute water crisis.

In 2017, a union ministry study revealed that around one out of every five persons in rural India who does not have access to clean drinking water is from West Bengal. The report also says around 411 lakh villagers in India which is around 4.5% of the country's rural population do not have access to clean drinking water. Out of this 411 lakh population, around 19% or 78 lakh villagers are from West Bengal and mainly from these three districts. It has the second highest number of villagers who do not have access to safe drinking water in India, second to Rajasthan.

The main source of water is the small rivulets-which are almost dry during hot summer. The situation gets worse when temperatures range from 42-47 degree Celsius. A number of check dams have been constructed to meet up this problem. But these districts get less rainfall unlike the other districts of west Bengal with annual rainfall is less than 140cm. Naturally, people depend on ground water for domestic, irrigation and other various purposes during this time, but excessive use of ground water has further worsened the situation. Therefore, proper evaluation, planning and management of ground water as well as surface water together are essential for these regions.

JHARGRAM, BANKURA and PURULIA

The aim for the assignment is to determine the availability of water or catchment yield in the districts Purulia, Bankura and Jhargram, which is required for solution of a number of water resource problems such as:

- Design of water resource projects
- Determination of availability of water for irrigation, domestic use, industrial use or hydropower generation
- Reservoir operation planning.

C. Objectives of the Assignment

The proposed assignment aims at evaluating ground water and surface water potential of the project districts and its associated challenges and the possible measures required for effective implementation of the schemes to harness the potential.

The agency will help the Irrigation & Waterways Department to ensure the achievement of all objectives by carrying out necessary synthetization of acquired/collected data and necessary designs. Based on analysis of secondary and primary data, detailed proposal to be submitted to Irrigation & Waterways Department. Consultant must suggest present and future scenarios and provide suitable recommendation for achieving sustainable ground water and surface water management for all the three project districts.

It will include:

- (1) Evaluation of month-wise surface water availability in the catchments of the rivers Kangsabati, Damodar and Subarnarekha included in the three project districts through data collection and primary analysis.
 - (2) Assessment of the sustainable ground water yield and ground water potential for the same area through secondary data collection, validation, compilation and examination.
 - (3) Estimation of future water requirement on a planning horizon of 30 years and project construction period of 5 years considering the different water uses, as directed by the department.
 - (4) Suggestion of ways for meeting the demands in a sustainable manner, considering surface and ground water together, including suitable project locations and means for harnessing the potential.
 - (5) Capacity building of the officers of the Department as well as other implementing agencies of the National Hydrology Project.

D. Scope of the Services

The scope of the proposed consultancy assignment includes preparation of a Feasibility Study Report that considers all the different solutions possible for development of sustainable water supply system for irrigation / industrial / domestic water uses which will be able to cater to the present and future demand in an optimal manner.

The detailed scope is as follows:

1) Evaluation of month-wise surface water availability

- a) The assessment of water availability should be based on available river discharge data, and to be augmented by runoff estimated from rainfall data/ gridded rainfall products
- b) Calibration and validation of the models used for estimation is necessary
- c) The major envisaged challenge is the limited availability of rainfall and water level/ discharge data for the non-monsoon months of November to May, coinciding with the period of maximum water scarcity
- d) The assessment should analyse long term data to check the stationarity of the series and bring out trends, if any

2) Assessment of the sustainable ground water yield

- a) This is expected to be based on available data (all that available in the public domain as well as with the different agencies and organisations) and secondary information
- b) Triangulation is to be carried out for cross-validity
- c) Along with the geology, meteorology, irrigated agriculture and other factors influencing the ground water availability, the improvement in methods of extraction should also be considered for the estimation of sustainable yield

- d) The prevailing guidelines are to be followed for estimation of sustainable yield from the total groundwater potential

3) Estimation of future water requirement

- a) Should be based on analysis of historical data analysis as well as future development plans for the multiple water uses as directed by the Department
- b) Should consider the water demand over the project construction period of 5 years and planning horizon of 30 years, considering the different uses

4) Suggestion of ways for meeting the demands

- a) Should present at least three different alternatives for each district with locations (centralised as well as decentralised) for meeting the demands in a sustainable manner
- b) Should present comparative analysis of the alternatives considering financial, as well as indicative environmental and social implications and time requirement for implementation of such project
- c) Should suggest the optimal option/ mix of options
- d) The department to make the final choice on measure(s) for harnessing the water resource potential considering practical aspects of implementation and sustainability of the solution
- e) The consultant to prepare feasibility study report for the best option/ mix of options chosen by the department
- f) The feasibility study report should include designs, drawings and cost estimates (feasibility level) for the chosen alternative(s) as well as indicative environmental and social implications

5) Capacity building of the officers

The objective of the training programme should be to enable officers of the department/ other implementing agencies of the National Hydrology Project to understand the process and update the figures based on development plans and further data availability in the future. It is envisaged to include organisation of up to five training programmes for a duration of up to one week, with about 25 participants in each programme.

The detailed steps for carrying out the assignment may include:

- (i) Collect and analyse data of discharge of rivers of the project district across the years
- (ii) Collect remote sensing images and other satellite/ other data products (those available in the public domain, in general) for estimation of runoff from rainfall
- (iii) Prepare a comprehensive geo data base for storage and analysis of all the related information
- (iv) Collect station and gridded rainfall data and convert it into water yield through use of suitable models, including calibration and validation

- (v) Assess ground water potential and estimate sustainable yield through examination of available data and secondary information, in order to create a data bank so that decision can be made in future about water allocation based on requirement either through surface water or ground water use or its use in conjunction
- (vi) Collect data and information needed to estimate irrigation requirement, domestic and other water demands in the area under consideration at present and in future considering a planning horizon of 30 years and a project construction period of 5 years
- (vii) Collect data and information about the existing population and population index to estimate the present as well as future water requirement in the said zone considering the future economic development
- (viii) Discuss with pertinent stake holders in consultation with department and consolidating the same for estimating the water requirement as per the design horizon
- (ix) Identify the different possible sources for supply of irrigation/ industrial/ domestic water in the area and suitable location for harnessing the potential
- (x) Prepare maps of the area under consideration on all the relevant themes, which are to become part of the geo data base
- (xi) Develop a plan to ensure water supply for the area from a single source/ a combination of sources that will allow sustainable operation and would be optimal in terms of financial, and indicative environmental and social aspects
- (xii) Prepare a Feasibility Study Report for development of sustainable water supply system for the area under consideration, considering the option(s) chosen by the department out of the alternatives proposed for each of the district. It may be a centralised or decentralised system or a mix of both.
- (xiii) Any other task as may be necessary to successfully carry out the assignment

E. Tasks

In pursuance of this policy, the Bank:
